BLANDFORD FORUM
TOWN COUNCIL

BEAUTIFUL BLANDFORD

Located on the banks of the River Stour, Blandford Forum is the most complete, small Georgian town in England.

Following an extensive fire in 1731 Blandford Forum “rose like the phoenix from its ashes, to its present beautiful and flourishing state” as the Fire Monument in the market place states.

This unique Georgian gem with its stunning architecture, charming parish church and wonderful market place was the inspiration of local architects and builders, the Bastard Brothers.

A visit to the town’s quaint museum tells the intriguing story of the rebirth of the town. Or try the unique experience of visiting the fascinating high-tech Royal Signals Museum inside the Army Camp above the town.

Surrounding the attractive Blandford Forum market place is a variety of independent shops and boutiques, cafes, restaurants and pubs.

Blandford Town Museum

Bere's Yard,
Blandford Forum
Dorset DT11 7HQ

T: 01258 450388

www.blandfordtownmuseum.org

The newly refurbished Blandford Town Museum is a local history museum with exhibits ranging from prehistoric to recent. There are displays on the history of Blandford, depicting the 1731 fire that destroyed the Mediaeval town, local businesses such as the forge and cobbler's workshop, a working model railway reconstruction of the Blandford railway station and goods yard and a reconstruction of a Victorian kitchen.

Visitors can also spend a relaxing time in the Victorian kitchen garden or visit the museum shop which features fascinating replicas, books, cards and children's toys. The shop also sells local crafts and produce, including home-made jams and chutneys, at very reasonable prices, made by museum garden club members.

The Museum also hold archives for people researching their family history.

Open Mon to Sat: 10am - 4pm. Sun 11am - 3pm.
Closed Wed. See website for winter opening

The Fashion Museum

Lime Tree House,
The Plocks,
Blandford Forum
Dorset DT11 7AA

T: 01258 453006

Visitors can enjoy fascinating exhibitions and a friendly welcome in the museum and the Traditional Tearoom.

Lime Tree House was bought to serve as a permanent home for Mrs. Penny's collection of historic costume. It opened, as a private museum, in May 1996. The house was built after the Great Fire of Blandford had destroyed much of the town in 1731.

The collections date from the 1730s to the 1970s and provide a unique history of fashion and accessories, illustrating the changes in styles and manufacturing.

Current exhibitions include - Ladies of Dorset, Styles that Changed Fashion, After the War and Retro - A chronological look at dress in scenes of everyday life from the 1920s to the 1970s. New exhibitions are regularly mounted. Check our website for more information and exhibition updates.

Open (From Feb) Mon, Thu, Fri and Sat 10am-4pm.
See website for winter opening

The Watermeadows

Blandford's beautiful watermeadows are a great place to relax and have a picnic or read a book. Take your coffee, picnic, sandwich or takeaway and enjoy the sights and sounds of the river. If you are lucky you may even see the otters and kingfishers.

It's just a short walk from the Market Place. Go through through Greyhound Yard where you can walk across the Mortain footbridge. There you can follow the Rotary Way footpath beside the Stour.

The meadows link the medieval road bridge in West Street with the modern Preetz bridge off East Street and the pedestrian access to out of town stores.

Please do not leave any rubbish.

Otters can often be seen on the River Stour. Ask in the Information Centre about the latest sightings.

North Dorset Trailway

The North Dorset Trailway is largely made up of sections of the old Somerset and Dorset Railway which used to link Bristol, Bournemouth and Christchurch. The current trailway extends from Sturminster Newton to Blandford, providing an off-road trail for walkers, cyclists and horses etc. There are plans for the gap to be spanned between the main trailway and the 2.5-mile section running from Blandford St Mary to Lower Spetisbury.

Find out more at www.northdorsettrailway.org or drop in to the Information Centre and pick up a Map, see below.

Countryside Walks

Blandford is surrounded by wonderful countryside, covering a wide range of habitats from water meadows to chalk downland. The history of the area can be discovered by exploring the ancient monuments and hill forts of -

Hod Hill, Hambledon Hill and Badbury Rings.

These protected sites display an amazing diversity of rare species including butterflies, birds and wild flowers.

Most are within easy reach from Blandford and are enjoyed by local residents and visitors alike. Around 30% of the North Dorset area is designated under two areas of outstanding natural beauty. North Dorset District Council takes the view that the conservation of the natural beauty of the area can be best achieved through an appreciation of the distinctive character of different parts of the area. The Countryside Ranger Service maintains and enhances the District Council-owned countryside sites promoting biodiversity and access. It is hoped to achieve Local Nature Reserve status for some Council-owned and privately-owned sites. The Rangers also promote wildlife issues through events and publications.

Pick up the new “Fun Walks” and “Gentle Strolls” around Blandford leaflet, with maps and instructions, only at The Information Centre.

Country Walks

Hod Hill

Starting at Stourpaine church this walk follows a track to the River Stour then follows a path through woodland to the road at the north of Hod Hill. Here you will find a small car park and an information board about Hod Hill. The walk returns to the church over the top of Hod Hill for spectacular views of the Stour and Iwerne valleys.

Hod Hill is an Iron Age fort whose ramparts once protected a large village of about 250 round houses. Around 44 AD the Romans captured the earlier village and built their own defences within the Iron Age fort. Allow time to explore the old forts while at the top of the hill.

Country Walks

Hambledon Hill

This walk climbs Hambledon Hill from Shroton. It returns to Shroton via a different route. Extend the walk to 4.5 miles or 7.3 km by walking around the hilltop which is encircled by an Iron Age earthwork. There are also extensive and complex Neolithic features, making it a site of major archaeological importance.

Hambledon Hill is a spectacular archeological site with neolithic enclosures and an Iron Age Fort on the hilltop. It is also a National Nature Reserve and an important chalk downland habitat for flowers and butterflies. Allow plenty of time to explore.

Country Walks

Badbury Rings

The first known settlement at Badbury was about 3000 BC. The rings at Badbury are the remains of an Iron Age hill fort. A Roman Legion arrived at around about 43 AD and captured the fort. Today the rings are cared for by the National Trust. Badbury Rings is a high point in the local landscape and provides excellent views in all directions.

Park in the Badbury Rings car park sign posted off the B3082 between Blandford Forum and Wimborne Minster. Dogs are allowed onto the Rings but you are asked to keep them on leads when livestock is grazing there. It is a paying carpark, free to National Trust members. Landranger sheet 195.
